

Co-Teaching: It Takes Two

Workshop Summary

Whether you are just starting co-teaching or your co-teaching partnership has been in place for a while, discover timesaving strategies and techniques for building a teaching partnership, co-planning lessons and working together effectively in the co-taught classroom. Co-teachers will learn about their roles and responsibilities as partners and how to meet the needs of all learners, especially struggling learners.

In this one-day session you will learn...

- How to handle communication issues and build a relationship with your co-teaching partner
- Ways to use level one and level two co-teaching models to involve both teachers in lead teaching
- Best strategies for effective scheduling and finding planning time
- How to co-design and co-plan lessons
- A simple framework for helping you know where to differentiate instruction and share the lead role in your lessons
- Ways to build relationship and community in the inclusive classroom

Register Today!

Click HERE or:

1. Go to www.cgresd.net
2. Click on 'Professional Development'
3. Click on 'Register for Workshops'

For More Information

Contact Jessica Aman
989-386-8603
jaman@cgresd.net

August 29, 2013
8:30 a.m. - 3 p.m.
Clare-Gladwin RESD

SCECHs: 5.5
Cost: $65

For Special Education and General Education
Teacher Teams

50 Spots Available

Kathleen Kryza, Presenter

As a passionate educator with experience in presenting and consulting internationally, Kathleen's workshops are engaging, practical, and filled with best teaching practices you can implement readily in your classroom instruction!

Kathleen is also the co-author of, "Inspiring Middle and Secondary Learners," "Inspiring Elementary Learners," and "Differentiating in the Real Classroom."

CLARE-GLADWIN
REGIONAL EDUCATION SERVICE DISTRICT
Excellence in Education Services