During Reading Apprenticeship, teachers from all subject areas and school leaders will learn to design and implement a school wide approach to literacy instruction and data analysis to guide literacy instruction across the subject areas.

Participants will learn to develop lessons in ALL CONTENT AREAS that:

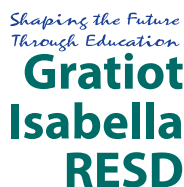

- Build on students' existing knowledge and strengths regardless of their independent reading ability
- Actively engage students in metacognitive and critical conversations in the field
- Model reading and writing like an experienced reader of subject area

SCECH Credits and CMU Credit (3 credit hours) pending approval.
